Fort Wayne, Indiana:

Gentlemen:

I would appreciate very much if you might give me some information of some kind about a painting of President Lincoln now in my possession.

Am inclosing a snap of the picture. The notations on the back of it were written some fifteen years ago by the previous owner Mr George Ramsey Patent Lawyer, New York. (my brother-in-law) The picture itself is 24 x 30 inches and is in a massive fine frame, a plate under the picture says, Portrait of President Lincoln by George Catlin - owned by Dr. I. Sims.

I cannot see any signature of any kind. Would appreciate any information that might throw some light on it. Regardless of when or who it is a pleasing oil well done - good flesh tones. Would like the snap returned if not too much trouble.

Again thanking you
Yours truly

Dear Mr. Corey:

I have checked our files on paintings made of President Lincoln and regret to say that I find no mention made of the artist, George Catlin.

The painting which you have in your possession appears to be a very fine likeness. We are returning your snapshot and would be pleased to learn any additional information you may discover about George Catlin.

We are enclosing a sheet enumerating 108 original photographs of Abraham Lincoln, as well as Lincoln Lore 791 in photostat.

Sincerely,

MM:ss

Dear Mr. Miller:

I have looked over your list of birds of Wisconsin and regret to say that I find no mention of the Golden Plover.

The painting which you have in your collection seems to be a very fine specimen. It was painted from a photograph and would be found in many of the collections of the country. (See George Miller.)

To the Museum of Natural History, I have sent a number of birds of Wisconsin, as well as a few of the others.

Sincerely,
George Miller

Very truly yours,
George Miller
